Tangshan Quake Area in China Is Toured by Premier

Coal-Leasing Reform Bill Enacted Over Ford Veto

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (UPI)

The House gave President
Ford his 10th veto setback to day by overriding his action to kill legislation on reform of coal leasing.

The vote, along with similar action in the Senate yesterday, was a major victory for environmentalists who had been trying for several years to update the 1920 leasing law.

The measure, which now becomes law, primarily affects Western states where large reserves of coal lie beneath public lands.

Just before the vote, Representative Morris K. Udall, Democrat of Arizooa, told his colleagues that the bill was "vital to the West" and that the Administration had been misled on its provisions.

The G.A.O., which is an investigating arm of Congress, said that the 39,000 state and local governments should be open to outside auditing so that they may be held accountable for their use of more than $6 billion annually in the program.

Meanwhile, House-passed legislation to extend revenue sharing beyond its Dec. 31 expiration is lagging in Congress, despite urgent pleas from local governments for action. The delay has been caused by the Senate Finance Committee's preoccupation with tax legislations.

Some Flood Victims Face More Anguish

LOVELAND, Colo., Aug. 4

As baking sunlight dried out the muddy wreckage in Big Thompson Canyon, rescue workers continued to discover new victims of theflash flood Saturday night. Survivors kept a vigil, often tearfully, at the old Loveland Hospital, now serviog as the morgue, while homeowners began salvaging what they could of their property. Hospital officials estimated that some 800 people were still missing.

One of them was Cheryi Watson, Mike Watson's former wife. She was last seen driving in a car along the flood route with a friend whose body has already been ideotified.

A Puzzling Portrait of Key Coast Kidnapping Suspe

Special to The New York Times SAN FRANCISCO, Ang. 4 - When 24-year-old Fred Woods, the last to be arrested of the three young men charged with the kidnapping and entombment of 26 schoolchildren, was taken into custody in Canada e week ago, he was dressed. as a Canadian official put it, "like an amateur cowhny"high-heeled boots, faded brown denim suit and a rancher's hat saucily curied over long brown sideburns.

When five members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police placed him under arrest, he remarked, "Tm really sorry I'm going to miss this on the news tonight."

When he was taken to his

When he was taken in his cheap hotel to pick up his single suitcase of belongings, he reintroduced himself to the desk clerk. "I'm sorry," he said, "I'm not Raiph Snider [the false name he had registered under] I'm Frederick Woods. From now on I'll introduce myself as on, I'll introduce myself as Frederick Woods."

The hravura performance was another ill-fitting piece in the puzzling portrait of a wealthy, privileged young man who, evidence indicates, is the central figure in a crime that is bizarre even by California standards.

It was at the Woods estate, called The Hawthornes, in wealthy Portola Valley, that the authorities found a draft of the kidnapping ransom note demanding $5 million from an undesignsted source.

It was a man identified photographs as Fred-Newhall Woods who erick Newhall Woods who allegedly purchased, using a false name, the vans used in the kidnapping.

It was at the gravel quarry owned hy Mr. Woods's father, Frederick Nickerson Woods 3d, that the children were held in a buried moving van for 18 sweltering hours be-fore they managed to dig their way out.

Conflicting Picture

It is an exaggeration to say that there seemed to be two Fred Woodses-the shy, unsocial young man who seemed to seek solace in the old cars and other possessions he surrounded himself with on the family estate. and the cocky, wise-cracking "cowboy" accused of kidnap-ping—but two aspects of his personality emerge from con-versations with those who knew him casually and those who knew him well.

These include two people who, arguably, knew him best-a woman whose yearlong marriage to him ended in divorce, and a young woman who was his girl-friend after his marriage.

Others knew him casually, for he had few close friends and among the casual acquaintances were schoolmates, neighbors, the young store the old cars he sold as a husiness ventore, some relatives and some family

From these accounts, it appears that Mr. Woods was stry, but occasionally bold and venturesome, hlushingly, almost embarrassingly frieodly and self-effacing, yet capa-ble of sharp hostility toward those he felt encroached on what was his. He was wealthy and lavished money on the things he wanted, his possessions, but stingy in all

Boyish Charm

He bad boyisb charm that enabled him, when he could overcome his shyness, to eoter into intimate relationships with women, but the relationships seemed to end quickly, and over these relationships there was the same quick, jealous guarding that caused him to ward off intruders on the family estate with a sbotgun, and, on at least one occasion, with gun-

Frederick Newhall Woods with Songel Nichols, whom he married in 1971. They were divorced one year later.

Frederick Newhall Woods was born 24 years ago, the son of Harriet Wright and Frederick Nickerson Woods

The middle name, Newhali, one of prominence and wealth. A relative said that the family can trace its ancestry to six Mayflower pil-grims, including John Alden and William Bradford, the Governor of Plymouth.

The Newhall Land and Farming Company commands huge investments in real estate, agriculture, cattle, oil, and gas. Through his relationship with the family, Mr. Woods stood to inherit, according to nne source, one thirty-sixth of the fortune.

Father's Business His father, a 1938 graduate of Stanford University and a native of Massachusetts, is owner of the California Rock and Gravel Comquarry where the bus and children were huried. The company reported gross sales of $15 million last year, and the young Mr. Woods is reported to hold stock in the

As a youngster, little is known of Fred Woods. A grammar school classmate said that he was "a little different." shy, awkward-"peoole made fur of him."

California law forbids the release of school records, but Mr. Woods reportedly did not do well in school, did not care for it.

He attended public school at Portola Valley's Woodside High School, the kind of school that "people lie, cheat and steal to get into," said a neighbor, and it was there that he met James Schoenfeld, also charged with the kidnapping. Mr. Woods also met Soogel Nichols, who was to become his wife.

Theirs was a union of shared insecurity, according to the young woman who remarried after her divorce from Mr. Woods in 1972, after only a year of marriage. She is now getting a second divorce.

Herself the product of a tangled and traumatic home situation, housed in a foster home, she said that Mr: Woods found ber a person alone-"and be took me in."

Their marriage, in the Cal-vary Baptist Church in Red-wood City, was unpreten-tious and the wedding album portrays nothing except a normal American couple. There are snapshots of the young bride with her wedding gifts, listed in red ink on a aeparate page—towels, Pyrex bowls, blankets, place mats, kitchen canisters, Tupcouple at Disneyland where they went on their honey-moon, Mr. Woods gawky,

She Had Friends

Mrs. Woods had her friends by the cottage on the hig estate where they lived; her new husband had none. "If we had anyone at our house that he invited, it was always his family or relarives," sine said.

To his young bride, Mr. Woods seemed inordinantly possessive, "a collector, he hoarded things." Scattered across the aging estate were scores of automobiles, fire en-gines, buses, vans, a hundred on the estate, she said. Mrs. Padgett said she had lived with Fred Woods for and kept in an institution.

"He told me once he was ashamed of her," she said.
"He said he was afraid people would make fun of him."

One other incident struck bis former wife as unusual.

"One evening coming home from work [from his father's rock quarry], he went by the field to count the horses, because one was stolen the week before. And he found this man's body. He came home and told me about it and was all excited. I asked him if he felt funny, finding he was excited. He kept the newspaper clips, because bis name was in the papers for finding the body."

No record of such an incident could be found in the records of appropriate police or medical officials, and a check of newspapers dis-closed nothing involving Mr.

The marriage ended abrupt-ly in early 1972, when Songel simply told her hasband that she was leaving him.

Part of the reason for that, sbe said, was that Fred Woods had a vascular blockage that prevented the couple from having children, al-though she axid they bad normal marital relations. "He just said ha preferred not to be around children," she said. Giri Friend's Recollection

"He was hitter about it," about the way his marriage had broken up," said a 20-year-old woman who was Fred Woods's girlfriend until about 10 months ago, when she broke off her relation-ship with him. "He just said she just left him, no discus-

Reagan, in Mississippi. Says Senator Is Less Liberal Than Ratings Suggest

By JON NORDHEIMER

JACKSON, Miss., Aug. 4-Ronald Reagan and his run niog mate, Senator Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania took pains today to try to explain to Mississippi delegates that the Senator was not personally as liberal as his voting record in Congress might indi-

At their first news conference together, both meo glossed over the Senator's support of many measures spon-sored by the liberal bloc in Congress, and they both agreed that Mr. Schweiker at heart believed that the private sec-tor and not the Federal Government should be leading the way in vital areas of public concern such as full employment and national health care

It was Mr. Reagan's first public appearance since he olted the Republican Party with the annouocement nine days ago that he had selected the 50-year-old Pennsylvanian as his choice for Vice Presi-

He said he had not backtracked on his committee to choose a running mate philosophically compatible with his own conservative views. He also said the liberal "label" that had been attached to Mr. Schweiker's name in his 16 years in Congress was mislead-ing despite the Senator's high rating by liberal groups such as Americans for Democratic Action and the Committee on Political Education arm of organized labor.

Mr. Reagan said he and Mr. in their opposition to issues such as forced busing, gun con-trol and abortion on demand.

Just before the Schweiker announcement, the tabulations kept by The New York Times. The Associated Press and other news organizations showed President Ford on the verge of assembling the 1,130 committed delegates needed for oomination. It seemed certain that the belated momentum Mr. Ford was showing would put him over the top in only two or three days.

The result would bave been to set off a stampede to the President, the Reagan strate gists concluded; unless they could somebow interrupt Mr. Ford's steady progress toward 1,130 on the nightly television news shows, and the front pages of newspapers, the nomination game was finished.

An attempt to disrupt the situation by threatening credentials battles or floor fights on the platform was rejected by the Reagan camp for two reasoos: because it could not be developed quickly enough to affect the delegate count, and because of what Mr. Sears sometimes calls "Sears's first law."

"At Hirsch Photo, I don't manage the books I manage the store".

Mario Hirsch

Hey, let's face it, I'm as interested in making a buck as the next guy. But the way I figure it. my books won't keep showing a profit if my customers keep seeing red. So I do everything I can to make sure they're tickled pink. You see, at Hirsch Photo there's no such thing as absentee ownership. I'm there every day from 9:00 in the morning to 6:00 at night. Five days a week. If you've got a complaint to make all you have to do is look for the handsome man with thinning hair. Now don't get me wrong, this isn't a one man operation, either. Because I've got a sales staff that knows as much about cameras (well, almost as much) as I do.

It's not easy knowing the latest developments in the camera business. Take for instance the Vivitar line. Most people only associate them with great lenses. Well, let me tell you they're no flash in the pan when it comes to other photographic equipment. In fact I've just added their great new line of 35mm cameras, electronic flashes, filters, tripods and tele-converters. It's a perfect example of being on your toes.

You see, right now my store's got a terrific name. Mine. And I aim to keep it that way.

The Duplex, a small two-level club at 55 Grove Street, just west of Sberidan Square, whose upstairs room was a busy showase for new talent until it closed three years ago, reopened this week, picking up where it left off as a setting for oew faces.

Josie O'Donnell, the room's first act, is not precisely a new face, because she has a long show-husiness career hehind her in nightclubs, in musicals and as a straight actress. But Miss O'Donnell has been away from show business for the last 10 years, rearing her three children, so her appearance is a re-turn, rather than a debut.

Those years of experience are evident in the aplomb with which Miss O'Donnell moves through a program that takes ber from slapstick comedy to sentimentality end on out into the tension-filled world of Jacques Brel. Miss O'Donnell brings a whiff of the British music halls with her—brief bits of Harry Lauder Gracie Fields and Beatrice Lillie - and the wild turbuleoce of Irish comedy in her energetic tale of "Delaney's Donkey."

She can swim from such row dy antics directly into remi-niscences with her family al-burn that become a bit cloying, although she quickly wipes away much of the sugar by growling her way into "And All That Jazz," from "Chicago." This constant shifting beween offsetting moods keeps her act moving and on balance, although her tendency to overplay whatever mood she is working makes some of the shifts seem more extreme than they oeed to be.

HOUSING MEASURE IS SIGNED BY FORD

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (AP)

Despite what he called some shortcomings, Presideot Ford signed today a hill that he said was a step toward assuring adequate housing for all Ameri-

The bill, the House Author-ization Act, extends programs of the Department of Housing and Urban Development through the fisal year 1977 and revises a number of them. It provides $850 million in additional contract authority for rental subsidies in low-income bousing projects. It lowers from 9 to percent to 7.5 percent the interest rate on .U.D. 40-year loans. The measure also authorizes

$2.5 billion in loans for housing for the elderly and handicapped: $576 million for public housing operating sub-sidies, and $100 million each or a program that finances home improvements and for a comprehensive planning grant program. "Unfortunately, it also contains provisions which indicate the strong reluctance on the part of this Congress to seek real solutions to the problems we face in assuring adequate housing all lower-income Americans," Mr. Ford said in a statement.

$100,000 in Gems Stolen From Dealer in New York

A diamond dealer carrying case that he said contained $100,000 in loose polished stones was set upon in a mid-town building by a thief who made off with the case, the police of the Midtown North Precinct reported yesterday. Los Sobel, the dealer, said he was on the 14th floor of a building at 36 West 47th Street waiting for an elevator. The as-

One could spend a lot of space exclaiming over Misside Larrocha's quicksilver runs and other technical feats, but finger magic was not the point of this recital. Like many other Mozart pl-anists, she tended to let final movements run away at

The Adagio of the Sonata No. 17 in D (K: 576), one of the simplest movements Mozart ever wrote, was a transfixing experience. It takes a great composer to say pro-found things so plainly, and few virtuosos know how to deal with such simplicity as well as Miss de Larrocha.

The League of New York Theaters and Producers, which has been a leader of the drive to improve midtown Manhat-tan, doosted a Bushman sweeper to the city and the Department of Sanitation.

Presentation of the sweeper was made yesterday in Shu-bert Alley by Gerald Schoen-feld, chairman of the Mayor's Midtown Citizens' Committee, to Anthony T. Vaccarello, Commissioner of Sanitation. Among those present for the occasion were Celeste Holm, wbo tested the vehicle by driving it around the alley, and Joseph Kipoess, restaura-teur and member of the league's urban environment committee.

Expressing his gratitude at what he hoped would be the beginning of "a clean sweep for Broadway," Commissioner Vac-carello said the sweeper had cost more than $5,000. "It is highly appreciated in the light of the department's lack of capital funds," he said. "We have over 5,000 pieces of rolliog equipment badly in need Mr. Schoenfeld said league, like so many other neighborhood and business associatioos, must do all it can to help during the city's finan-cial difficulties. "We seek to make theatergoing more pleasurable for both New Yorkers and visitors," Mr. Schoenfeld

'Alpha Beta' Details Marital Agonies

In a sense, it is not a movie. It is a filmed play and filmed plays are usually disastrous. The camera is a restless eye and its restless-sess spreads like itching

"Alpha Beta," a contem-porary British play about a working-class marriage, is particularly unlikely as a movie. Its two characters sonfine themselves to a tiny atchen and living room and evend three acts mutilating each other with words.

But the film, which opened yesterday at the Quad II and Thalia Theaters, in a triumph in chains. The constrictions are a form of discom-fort akin to hard seats in a basement theaer. The pennedin camera, the talking heads, are insufficient, but it is a relative insufficiency, like that of an opera performed in concert version.

If the singers are good eoough, the expedieot works. And Rachel Roberts and Albert Finney are so extra-ordinary as the husband and wife t hat they make "Alpha," cinematic or not, a startling and wooderful experience.

There is no real plot, only a theme. It is that the breakup of a marriage is not a way out, but a playing-out of a joint agony. Inevitable and murderous at the same time, each blow wounds assailant as well as victim.

The passing of time is the dramatic device. "Alpha's" three acts, preserved in the film, take three stages of the breakup, each some five years apart.

At the beginning it is five or six years into the marriage of Frank Elliot, a clerk io a produce-shipping company, and his wife, Nora. From the start, we know exactly where they are. Her hands move quickly, it is to be hoped, incompeteotly, pasting up hideous white wallpaper in their living room. It is the achievement of Miss Roberts and Mr. Finoey to make "Alpha" more universal than it is. Mr. Finney is wrath, anguish, hesitancy and charm io one chunky, seedy package. Enter the church, turn left and proceed up the wall aisle to the verger's desk, where the cassettes are available at a fee of $1 for individuals and $1.50 for couples. The mini-tour, lasting about 30 mioutes, has an authoritative guide—the voice of the Rev. William B. Gray, the church pastor. Moving through the imposing edifice, the listener will be reminded that the original site housed three churches io 1697 and the present huilding, which went up in 1840.

Outside in the lovely old graveyard, a favorite midday baven of people in the area, those listening to the ca-settes will be guided to sig-nificant resting-place markers, such as those of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Hamilton and Robert Fultoo; William Bradford, the first government printer, and Francis Lewis, the only signer of the Declaration of Independence to be buried in Manhattan.

The outcomes of both games seemed uncertain. If Larsen drawa at least one, he will tie with Tal. If he draws both or wins one, he will go back into the lead will go back into the lead for Friday's 19th round. Tha two leaders are trailed narrowly by four pre-tournament favorites who have 11 points each: Robert Huebner of West Germany, Lajos Portisch of Hungary, and two other former world cham-pions, Tigran Petrosian and Vasily Smyslov, both from the Soviet Union.

The top three players will qualify for the candidates' tournament to be held next year to decide who will face the reigning world cham-pion, Anatoly Karpov, in

Silverman and Lipsitz Win The Life Master Pair Title Bridge:

By ALAN TRUSCOTT

SALT LAKE CITY, Aug. 4

—A young New York expert scored a convincing victory in the life master Pair championship here in the early hours of this morning collecting his first national

In the second major cham-pionship at the American Contract Bridge League's Summer Nationals, Neil Silverman shared the honors with Boh Lipsitz of Potomac, Md. Lipsitz thus lost his Md. Lipsitz thus tost ins-claim to a most unusual dis-tinction: he was a world champion (in the mixed teams in 1972) who had never been a national champion. The final standings were:

first, Silverman and Lipsitz, 1.084: second, Mike Passell of Mission Viejo, Calif., and Garey Hayden of Lakewood, Colo., 1,055; third, Ed Nagy and Harvey Brody of San Francisco, 1,027; fourth, Alan Sontag of New York and Eddie Kantar of Los Aogeles, 1,006, and fifth, Michael Becker and Ron Ruhin of

New York, 98814. The Spingold knockout teams began this afternoon with 118 teams in competition. The winner of the final next Monday will earn a place in team trials to select the 1977 North American world championship team. A sign of the times is the scar-city of East Coast players among the top-seeded groups. The four top-ranked teams consist almost entirely of players from California and the Southwest.

Wrong Contract The life master pair winners took full advantage of some opponents who eotered the auction at the wrong moment and landed in the wrong contract. As shown in the diagram, Lipsitz opened the East hand with one notrump, and Silverman re-sponded two diamonds. This was a Jacoby transfer bid promising length in hearts and a hand of indeterminate strength. As North was nonvulnerable and had good distribu-tion, he felt an urge to hid. He would have come to no harm if he had doubled, showing diamonds, or if he had bid two hearts, a cue-bid asking his partner to pick a suit and leading the partnership to a spade contract.

North's actual choice was two no-trump, the "unusual" variety promising length in the two minor suits and heading the partnership in the wrong direction. East passed, and South might have saved the day by passing. By rejecting both minor suits, he might have persuaded his partner to hid three spades, a contract that would fail by two tricks at most and might not be doubled. However, South firmly bid three clubs, boping to escape a double. His hopes were dis-appointed. Silverman duly doubled, and South decided to stand his ground rather than retreat to three diamonds. If left to their own bidding devices, East-West would have played hearts.

What happens in "The Jigsaw Man," by English mystery writer Dorothea Bennett, probably has occurred in previous apy-thrillers—the K.G.B., the Soviet intelligence and security agency, disguises one of its former English operatives, one Philip Kimberly, and sends him back to England to secure a compromising file that be has stolen and hidden; knowing that once the file is in Russian hands be might as well be dead, Kimberly offers it to the English in exchange for freedom and a bank account lo Switzerland. But the method Miss Bennett employs to disgnise her antihero is unusual—sbe has the K.G.B. carve away Kimberly's excess blubber oo an operating table and send him back to England literally as a shadow of his former self.

Redemption via Identification

Alao, Miss Bennett's dialogue, whether clipped or cockney, is extraordinarily lively. And she has the most confounding ability to make her plot twist and turn, and to manipulate the reader's sympathies back and forth-at least until she tries to redeem Kimberly in our eyes, after be has murdered some of the nicest people in the novel, by having him identify with Christ at a Good Friday communion service. ("There had to be human sacrifice. The people who had been in his [Kimberly's] way bad, of necessity, been swept aside. In the church, he'd thought that he himself was Jesus Christ. That was not really so-though of course he had himself been crucified.")

But by the time this occurs the pace of events has reached such a pitch that Miss Bennett could probably have gotten away with anything. After all, it oo longer matters whom we like or dislike, or even who's on the Russian side or the English. The fascinating thing is simply to see how Miss Bennett will untangle the messwhich she does with wit and clan, and a satisfying measure of suspense.

Politics of Cynicism

American voters have oo way of casting a ballot for a Presidential nominee without automatically voting for his running-mate as well. Given that aspect of the electoral system, they have a right to expect a certain philosophical compatibility between the two men who head a party's ticket. They should be able to choose a President who halieves, say, in a totally free-market economy, hig defense and no public works programs for the jobless without having to vote for a Vice President who believes in an effective government presence in the market-place, a reduction in defense spending and Federally provided jobs for the unemployed. After all, today's Vice President may he tomorrow's President, as four of the last aix occupants of that office have demonstrated.

Yet if Ronald Reagan wins the Republican comination, his choice of Seoator Richard S. Schweiker as his running-mate will confront Republican voters with precisely that dilemma of philosophical compatibility. The differences between the two men are not confined to these few issues, major as they are. Where a President Reagan would oppose divestiture of the oil companies ("we have enough anti-monopoly laws in this country to handle any mocopoly situation") a potential President Schweiker would, on his record, move to shrink the power of the hig oil companies. Where Mr. Reagan would elimioate farm price supports and keep organized labor at arm's length, Mr. Schweiker would bring to the highest office votiog record in favor of price supports and of such solid agreement with labor that the A.F.L.-C.I.O. enthusiastically supported him in his last Senate race.

How do these strangest of political bedfellows justify their present sleeping arrangements? Governor Reagan's manager blandly ignores his candidata's repeated expressions of contempt for such "marriages of convenience," explaining in the simple way of tacticians that "the political reality is that Senator Schweiker can help us beat Carter in the fall." As for the Senator, he expects to have no trouble in shedding his long-beld positions or repudiating his record, io the campaign or in office, hecause he will no longer be representing a generally liheral and pro-lahor atate; as a Vice Presideotial candidate, he says, "I am now changing constituencies."

Only the naïve expect politics to be without a measure of expedieocy, but io the aftermath of Watergate only the cynical will readily swallow that much of it.

The Crime of Bribery

The Ford Administration's plan to discourage corporate brihery abroad falls short of the meaningful sanctions essential to stamp out these improper though long established husiness practices.

The hill submitted to Congress this week relies almost solely on a disclosure requirement: Any payments to foreigo officials by companies in pursult of business opportunities must be reported to the Federal Government. Under specified conditions, this Information could then be made available to foreign investigative bodies and, eventually, to the public.

To be sure, disclosure does act in itself as a strong deterrent against many types of improper payments. But another bill sponsored by Senator Proxmire, chairman of the Banking Committee, goes further to declare the payment of bribes illegal under United States law, with appropriate criminal penalties.

The Administration's reasoning in resisting a criminal prohibition is unconvincing. It would indeed be difficult to enforce in many cases, but so would disclosure requirements. Any firm bent on continuing payoff relationships with foreign authorities or buyers could manage to conceal the payments, and the Government would bave a difficult time establishing that an unreported payment bad io fact occurred. Further, to argue that any criminal prohibition should await internationally. accepted rules, so that all exporting nations would have to operate under the same strictures, is to put off effecttive action to some far, Indefinite-and perhaps unattainable-future.

Theodore C. Sorensen, whose New York law practice involves advising corporate clients on just these questions, makes a strong case for criminal prohibition in the current issue of Foreign Affairs quarterly. Mr. Sorensen argues that many corporate officials would actually welcome such legislation because it would make it easier for them to resist pressures.

As more and more leading American companies come forward these days to give the Securities and Exchange Commission details of improper and often illegal payments over years past, it is no longer possible to look upon the well publicized cases as isolated transgressions. A large part of world commerce seems to rest on the shabby foundation of bribery and routine payoffs; once such practices get started, it is difficult for any company to pull back on its own volition.

For its own protection, the business community-to say nothing of the broader public-needs the strongest possible Government sanctions against the corruption of everyday commerce.

Strikes and the Law

The illegal strike of municipal hospital workers against the sick and a sick city is another tragic consequence of the persisting failure of public officials to uphold the state's Taylor Law, which was designed to prevent such potentially disastrous walkouts by public emplovees.

Union leaders have hrazenly defied a court injunction against the strike and have even openly threatened violence, seemingly confident that they will not be punished for their acts. They need oot look far for reassurance.

Only last month, New York's Corporation Counsel pleaded with a State Supreme Court Justice and the state'a Public Employment Relations Board to show leniency in dealing with an illegal five-day teachers' strike last fall. The city official, who was supported by the Board of Education, argued that the law-breaking United Federation of Teachers was entitled to consideration hecause of the "sacrifices" it has made during New York's fiscal crisis.

In fact, the five-day strike resulted io a cootract that penalized studeots with a shorter school day and imposed such new hurdens on a near-hankrupt city that the pact was rejected by the Emergency Financial Control Board-and still has not been approved.

How much more must the sick, the young and other victims of illegal public strikes suffer before the city, the courts and such other relevant agencies as the Public Employment Relations Board enforce the law?

Philadelphia Puzzle

Because American mortality statistics are oormally low, it seems unlikely that chance alone can account for the tragic occurrence of 22 deaths and the hospitalization of at least 130 people among those associated with an American Legion convection in Philadelphia last month. Attention to this phenomenon has been heightened hy earlier warnings of the possibility of a swine flu epidemic.

In an atmosphere of understandable concern, two usually obscure medical specialties, that of the pathologist and the epidemiologist, now move to ceoter stage. The pathologists seek to find the cause of death and illness, analyzing tissues obtained at autopsy and also studying blood, urine, saliva and other fluids from those who are sick or who have recovered. Every possibility is investigated, including chemical, hacterial, viral, fungal and other possible causes. The epidemiologists are the detectives of modern medicine. They search for some commoo factor linking the victims that might explain their Illness.

The classic triumph for epidemiology came in 1849 when the English physician, John Soow, noticed amidst the confusion of a Londoo cholera epidemic that the victims had all drunk from the same pump in Broad Street. When he took the handle off the pump to prevent its use, the epidemic was virtually stopped in its tracks.

The solution to the Philadelphia mystery is not likely to be that simple. Nevertheless, the coocentration of cases so far encourages hope that a pin-pointed cause-and not some very contagious disease—is at the root of this illness. Presumably, too, there is a good chance that the mystery will he unraveled as soon as pathologists' studies are completed. Armed with the rich arsenal of scientific medicine, the investigators are fortuoately well equipped to solve the alarming puzzle, to deal with the threat of infectious disease and to prevent panic. ,

Keep It Clean

The Senate put in a good day's work when it beat back a major assault oo one of the key proposals to strengtheo the Clean Air Act. Intensive efforts by husioess and industrial lobbies failed to shake the conviction of roughly two-thirds of the Senate that air still relatively unpolluted should remaio that way. New plants that would significantly degrade air quality would have to locate in areas classified by the states themselves aa appropriate, the classification depending on how much cleaner an area is to begio with than national standards require.

The concept is not new. Essentially it is already embodied in regulations of the Environmental Protectioo Agency. What was oeeded was more specific language. a greater role for the states in doing the classifying and the backing of statutory law. These purposes are well met hy the new bill, largely the work of Senator Edmund S. Muskie.

Senator Moss of Utah, normally a supporter of environmental legislation, led the move to eliminate the "non-degradation" provision—oo doubt under pressure from utilities and other concerns that would industrialize the Far West to the grave detriment of the air over many national parks and moouments. Unfortunately, his defeat on this point does not mean the end of the effort. Representative Chappell of Florida is trying to eliminate a comparable protectioo from the companioo hill io the House, which is scheduled to go to the floor

Following the lead of the Senate, the House should uphold a provision that can make the difference between a country that still preserves some regions of relatively pure air and ooe uniformly laden with the dirt and chemicals that Americans have been obliged to breathe in too many regions—to thair untold cost in health, dollars and pleasure.

The House eovironmental ohligation will only begin with defeat of the Chappell amendment. Equally omicous is the attempt by Representative Diogell of Michigan to wipe out, in effect, the Clean Air Act's paiofully established emission standards. Where the Senate hill would tolerahly compromise, to the extent of giving the laggard auto manufacturers one more delay, the Dingell amendment would freeze current standards for three years, defer uotil 1982 statutory staodards for hydrocarbons and and carbon monoxide and those for oitrogeo oxides

Mr. Dingell-like Senator Moss, as a rule a reliable environmentalist-represents Detroit, which may explain much. But for the House as a whole, the continuing physical health of all Americana must surely take precedence over the temporary discomfort of an industry that has too long resisted the plain mandate of Congress.

Letters to the Editor

To Understand Peking's Strategy

To the Editor: In his July 28 Op-Ed piece "Expanding Our Ties With China," Presidential aspirant Ronald Reagan asserts that the Chinese "share with us and Japan some common and complementary goals in the Pacific," and he purports to discern a present indirect Chinese "message," namely that "they want to explore with us and Japan an expanded relationship." And what would be the common goals fostering closer association between the United States, Japan and the People's Republic of China (P.R.C.)? Well, apart from trade, "All three oations wish to bring stability to the region." Candidate Reagan develops the argument for fitting in wito the presumed Chinese scheme of things: "A broadened relationship could also serve to provide a harrier to Soviet expansionism." And he holds that, 'To take advantage of this Asian opportunity [as cooveyed by the Chinese 'signals'], we must regain credibility in Peking's eyes. Paradoxical as it may seem, this means honoring our commitments to South Korea and Taiwan."

This is more than paradox: It is defiance of the historical record; it betrays misinterpretation of Peking's grand strategy. The United States fought the Korean and Vietnam Wars to "cootain" the P.R.C. as a fomenter of Asian revolution, and our treaty alliances with Taiwan and South Korea are essential elements of that strategic design. So while maintaining intact its West Pacific anti-Communist ties, the United States is to enter into cozy entente with Communist China against the Soviet Union? What price "credibility"? China's well-advertised strategic concepts deny the Reagan proposition's basic premise that Peking favors stability, i.e. the international status quo, in the Pacific region. The doctrinal Maoist characterization of this era-and it fits most often involves confession the post-Vietnam period in Asia neatly —is that this is a time of "great dis-order under Heaven," which is to be viewed as not at all bad, but good, as favoring the revolutionary cause of the third world (of which the P.R.C. claims to be a part) against both the United States and the Soviet Union. This is indeed a time of change for Asia, for China; but there exists oo tangible evidence that Peking has renounced Chairman Mao Tse-tung's revolutionary coocept of "anti-imperialism" in particular. So, is the implicit proposition that the Chinese leadership now stands ready to col-laborate with the "imperialist" United States for the attainment of American political objectives in the Pacific area credible-or incredible?

To the Editor: The importance of Governor Reagan's announcement of his choice of Seoator Schweiker as his running mate is its revelation of his cumpulsory, impulsive meotal process in making decisions.

A Voter for Ford

Of course, if you could put them both into a hlender, the results would be a more balanced appeal to moderate voters. But, as it is, should Renald Reagan win, the extreme right (his chief supporters) would be in fear and trembling lest something happen to him and result io the very opposite of their aim. And the extreme left will be wishing him dead. A Vice President does not influence policy.

It must be remembered that an actor's chief training is to make us thick he is someone other than who he is and to emote to his audience to make them happy or angry. Hence, Ronald Reagan's idea was to give us a dramatic shock, even though he had only talked to Senator Schweiker for six hours.

Republicans take warning and see that our straightforward, courageous President Ford is nominated.

Discrimination at Home To the Editor:

Joel Carlson's July 29 letter oo the racial rectitude of the African nations that withdrew from the Olympic Games suggests a ooe-way vision. It is not necessary to list instances of discrimination from countries north of the Kalahari to see that South Africa has applied such discrimination, but in a more sophisticated and less tribal manner, So why pick on South Africa when no nation is clean in this regard?

Mr. Carlson ironically has found exile from his country in a hemisphere where the South African racial model has been developed several stages further, to the exclusive beoefit and security of those of his own ilk. For "Transkei" start reading "Reservations," for Sharpeville and Soweto read Sand Creek and Wounded Knee, and one begins to drop the accusing

Dealing With Unemployment

To the Editor:

Andrew Levison's ["Johs at Deceot Wages" Op-Ed July 22] solution to the current economic problem of unemployment is both dangerous and naive It is dangerous because it appears to ployment is both dangerous and naive. because it treats only the short-run symptoms of a long-term illness which. under Mr. Levisoo's prescriptioo, will

It is unfortunate that a country as wealthy as ours cannot afford the output of all its citizens. But that is precisely what society is saying to those who are unemployed. At some wage lower than what the unemployed are asking the free market would certainly employ them. However, Mr. Levison suggests that this would create the modern-day version of the medieval workhouse.

Thus he proposes that the government, for the sake of decency, employ these individuals at a higher wage thao society is willing to pay. In order to fund this proposal Mr. Levison recommends a "progressive tax in-crease." Herein lies the danger, Without elaboration, jobs depend oo investment, which depends oo savings, which depends on how much income is left after taxes.

Fortunately for Mr. Levisoo there is currently sufficient income to be redistributed to achieve even the most optimistic definition of full employ-

The high rates of tax required to pay for what society can't afford eventually erodes the two things that have created our ahundance of material wealth; capital accumulation and incentive. In the loog run there simply woo't be eoough investment in plant and machinery to give the work force the productivity needed to remain competitive. Thus the eoterprise that employs them will oo longer be able to afford them and will either require government subsidy to keep them or he forced to let them go. In that case fewer people will he productively employed and more taxes will be needed to subsidize those not productively employed.

In the meantime, capital will flow to where it is more efficiently used (less taxed) and with it will go the more productive and industrially creative members of our society. Ultimately instead of having a small percentage of labor force in the workhouse for a short period of time, we will all be together in the poorhouse. But that is the "social advance" promised by Mr. Levison. Equal poverty is not my conception of equity.

At the heart of all time immemorial there have social structures and political systems is the nature of man. The process of evolution and netural selection has given us various features and instincts which we all share. This is our humannature, and try as we may to sublimate it to rational intellectual argument very few of us will ever succeed in transcending it completely.

So the very first rule of any system or organization is that its whole structure must be competible with e realistic understanding of human oature, giving full encouragement to its heneficent and creative qualities while providing the necessary restraints on its less edmirable characteristics. He does not consider that the pieces upon the chess-board have no other principle of motion beside that which the hand impresses upon them; I we must get it firmly fixed but that, in the great chess-board of human society, every single piece has a principle of motion of its own altogether different from that which the legislature might choose to impress upon it. If those two principles coincide and ect in the same direction. the game of buman eociety will go. on easily and harmoniously, and is very likely to be happy and successful. unless these principles are understood.

The force behind all the motions is the need to provide the necessities and satisfactions of life, more usually and simply referred to as making a living.

The purpose of making a living is to live a good life and if possible to do better. It is a means to the eod of affording and equipping a home. It is a means to the end of providing for e family, and there can be no more laudable ambition than to bring up and educate children to become responsible and decent citizens.

It is e means to the end of achieving a degree of finaocial independence and security egeinst a rainy day; against sickness and old ege. It is clearly the duty of governments to provide e safety het for those who fail or who are unable to look after themselves, but that is no reason to create obstructions for the more fortunete individual whose prime ambition has always been to provide for family, health and old age, the voluntary support of charities and the personal involvement in cultural activities.

Britain in Transition: I

By Anthony Lewis:

LONDON, Aug. 4-Taking the pulse of a society is a tricky busioess for journalists. But after two weeks of wetching and listening here, I am convinced that Britain is in a better state than she has been for some time: more confident, more unified, more realistic.

Realism may be the most significant aspect of the observed change. Two vears ago Britain was living in a cloud of illusion. Unions were demanding, and getting, wage increases of 30 percent a year and more. Inflation was climbing toward the same rate. A prime minister who made Dr. Pangloss look reasonable, Harold Wilson, was assuring his public that everything was just fine.

Wheo those illusions inevitably hegan to fade, there came a time of dark anxiety. Paopla wondered out loud about the health of Britain's hasic institutions, lew and parliamentary government. There was talk about some kind of economic or political catastrophe overwhelming this country.

Todey many Britoos remain worried. about their future here, and their children's. The pound is still in trouble. No Garman or Jepanese aconomic miracle is in sight. But the deepest gloom has lifted. Sensible people mix skepticism with cautious bope.

The main reason for the change is the attitude of the powerful lebor unions. They have agreed to a Government policy of holding wage claims to 4.5 percent e year, and the most militant are keeping that promise. Strikes are down to the lowest level in twenty years. The unions even stood still just now, despite anguished cries from the laft wing of the Labor Party, for cuts in planned public expenditure.

A cynic would find tactical or persocal explanations for the current union policy, but I think something longer-lasting mey be involved. It is illustrated by the experience of a Conservative member of Parliament from a menufacturing district near Oxford.

Two years ago this M.P. visited a factory in his district that makes automobile heaters. As he walked through, the workers jeered him and shouted about the company's fet profits. This year, a unioo delegation visited bim et the House of Commons and asked him to help get new business for the heeter company. The workers were afraid that its profits were not high enough to essure their johs.

That story suggests thet men and women on the assembly line have reected very much as the middle class has to eveots of the last year or two. They have sensed the possibility of Weimar Inflation and a collapse of authority, and they have been frightened. For the sake of stability, and specifically of jobs in a time of rising unemployment, they were prepared to exercise a good deal of restraint.

The question is how permanent the new realism is, and how far it goes. And that is both an economic and a political question.

Ecocomically, pressures are going to increase. The rall in the pound's value is pushing up the cost of imported goods. The annual rate of consumer price increases, 29 percent last August, is now helow 14 percent, That is a sharp improvement—but still hard for the family living on the margin to-bear, How loog can voluntary wage restraint last?

Politically, the question of immediate interest is the price that has to be paid for union cooperation. The Labor Government has pushed through Parliament this session a number of hills that strike outsiders as at best irrelevant to real national coocerns: nationalizing aircraft and shipbuilding companies, for example. That kind of legisletion is generally viewed as a concession to union and left-wing pos-

. The formulas of vesteryear still have a remarkable grip on this country. For example, public housing is so beavily subsidized now that rents cover only $43 of every $100 in costand those homes are not reserved for the oeedy. Anyone earning more than $35,000 e year pays in taxes 83 cents of every dollar he makes over that amount. The marginal tax rate could be cut from 83 to 70 percent with only e trivial loss of Government revemue, but the symbol of soaking the rich is treasured. The question is whether, or when, the unions will allow reform in such areas.

For many years now Britsin has been on e long, slow slide in wealth and power. Eveo an optimist would have a hard time maintaining that the fundamental reasons for thet decline -the preference for comfort over competitioo, tha politics of envy, the low investment-heve changed. The new Prime Minister, James Calleghan, is a comfortable type who was described by one analyst, Joe Rogaly of The Financial Times, as an Ancient Mariner presiding with an easy smile over the country's decline.

But realism is better than illusions, and those with power tend to become more realistic when they also have responsibility. The tentative beginnings of these recent months could heve lasting effects on Britain's unions, and conceivably even on class attitudes. In thet sense, and perhaps in more profound ones, British institutions are changing.

A KNBC Channel 4 editorial put it this way:

The overriding fect is that bigness in oil companies isn't nacessarily bad, when it takes

If the politicians who are trying to climb into higher office over the bodies of America's oil in 1908 held that Indian tribes were entitled to enough water to make their reservations viable. However, the Interior Department, charged by law to serve as trustee of Indian water rights, has in the past actively participated in collusions to violate the law and rob the central Arizona tribes of their weter. Because of the shameful acts and omissions of the Interior Department, the Pimas and our neighboring tribes today bave only enough. surfece water to farm an average of less than one acre per person.

While it has impoverished the tribes, Interior has been generous in bestowing Indian water on powerful commercial interests. Some large corporate farms irrigated by Federal reclamation projects use more surface water than all the 2,700 Salt River Pima-Maricopus or the 18,000 Papagos.

Having reduced the Indian people of central Arizona from prosperity and abundance to poverty and deprivation, the United States Government now pays out tens of millions of dollars per year to provide welfare and other special services to us. But the real cost is reflected in high rates of unemployment-about five times the current rate in New York City-alcoholism and family disintegration, and in grossly substandard housing, poor nutrition, sickness and shortened lives.

The past and continuing failure of the Interior Department to enforce Indian water rights is ultimately the failure of the office of the President as well. We appeal to President Ford to finally end a century of dishonor and act expeditiously to bring about a legislative settlement of our water

Congress has before it the Central. Arizona Indian Tribal Water. Rights Act of 1976, introduced by Senator Edward M. Kennedy at our request. This legislation would restore the lewful water rights of the 30,000 Pima-Maricopas, Papagos, and Moheve-Anaches of Arizona, allow our tribes to be self-sufficient again, and relieve the taxpayers of the costs of welfare for our people.

The bill would also eliminate the need to build the $1 billion Wellton-Mohawk desaiting complex in southwastern Arizona-and save the American taxpayer from a staggering subsidy of $6.6 million per farm to the owners of 151 non-Indian farms.

We petitioned the President to support the bill or to submit legislation of his own, believing that if the President and the Congress acted quickly, there would still be time this year for a water-rights bill to be enacted.

Hearings on the Kennedy bill were scheduled before the Senete Interior and Insular Affairs Committee. The five central Arizona tribes were invited to testify next week. Suddenly everything has been called off. Once more we are denied our constitutionally protected right to petition for redress of grievances. Where can we turn when both the President and Congress fail us? We appeal to our fellow Americans to add their voices to ours, and meybe then we will be heard.

And a KNXT Channel 2 editorial said it like this:

This is a political year, and as usual, some of those running for office are looking for somathing Several of the biggest campaigners have dacided to take on the oil companies and preach the gospel that the companies are monopolistic and ought to be broken up. If they're sincare, they're misguided. The theories ere: bigness is bed; a monopoly exists, oo one company should be involved in drilling, reflning, transportation and retail seles. The public benefit of breeking up the big companies is supposed to be more competition end lower prices.

These ideas could be dismissed as mere competing hokum, but a recent poll by the Roper organizations.

tion showed that about e third of the public believes it. the complaint about e third of the public believes it.

The real problem is a dwindling oil supply, higher production coets, and a cartel of foreign countries who have bended together and quadrupled the price of oil in a couple of years.

The complaint about monopoly is a joke. You can't find much mora intense competition anywhere than when the cil companies bid for laases or bid for ratail dollars. The customer becefits. The biggest oil company has less than 10% of the market. It's true that little companies have e herd time competing, but bundreds of millions of dollers are needed just to bid for rights to drill. There can't be bundreds of companies big enough to try.

How many dry wells at $5 million apiece or mora can e ehosetring operation afford? The companies around here are not heavily into retail. The great majority of stations are run by private operators who own or lease them. Profits are often mantioned. Big increases of 200% or 300% in the oil shortage. But the starting point weslow, end the increase merely brought them up on a par with other industries.

The oil compenies are swhipping boy — useful for anyons who wents to get attention. But look bahind the complaints, and see if there's any real basis for them. In this case, the claim of oil company monopoly is felse. as you can see every day with so many fetailers competing to get you to pull up to their gas pumps.

Electronic Flagpoles Drawing A Congressman's Red Glare By MOLLY IVINS wind up costing more than was part of the initial $3,409

The United States General Services Administration has been running electronic flag-poles up the flagpole, but Representative William F. Walsh of Syracuse is not saluting.

Instead the upstate Republican is demanding a Congressional investigation of why the G.S.A. has ordered at least 107 photosensitive electronic flagpoles at Federal installations around the country. The Congressman says the G.S.A.'s electronic flagpole in front of the new Federal Office Building in Syracuse cost $10,429. The manufacturer says the pole cost $3,409.

The flagpole there contains a photosensitive cell that causes the flag to be raised when the sun rises, to lower when the sun sets and to fold automatically into a com-partment about halfway down the aluminum shaft. It was this flagpole that drove the money-sensitive Mr. Walsh up the wall. But Ted Schmit, vice president of Electronic Flag Poles inc. of May wood. III.. maกน facturer of the flagpole, insisted: "There is no way in God's world it could have cost $10,000." Mr. Schmit said that when the pole left the company plant, the $3,409 cost included anodizing the pole with a clear coating and freight charges.

However, according to the project architects of the Syracuse Federal Office Building the firm of Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw & Folley of Syracuse, the flagpole did indeed $10,000. Arthur C. According to the architects figures, when the project was first estimated in March 1971, the plan called for a regular aluminum pole that cost $3,200. In November 1971, the G.S.A. directed a design change from aluminum to stainless steel-estimated cost, $10,000.

In the spring of 1973, the G.S.A. requested the architects to investigate the cost of an automatic pole. The only automatic poles are aluminum. In fact, Electronic Flag Poles holds a patent on automatic poles. Mr. Schmit calls it a "proprietary item" -no other company makes

According to the architects' figures, the price of an ordinary aluminum pole had by then risen to $4,000 and electronic pole cost $8,940. The wiring and controls for manual override of automatic pole $1,489 more, the architects

The manual override was deemed necessary in case the President were to die, say, and the flag had to be low-ered to half-staff. There were appareotly some additional wiring expenses in the Syracuse project, since the controls had to be placed io a central maintenance room rather than close to the flag-

The G.S.A. has apparently been encouraging the use of electronic flagpoles. In a memorandum of Oct. 21, 1975, headed "Status of Electronically Operated Flag-poles," the agency noted that 107 locations in various G.S.A. regions had ordered

The memo said: "They [electronic flagpoles] are purchased to replace deteriorated or unsafe flagpoles, to eliminate the raising or lowering of flags in unsafe places or under unsafe conditions and to save money by utilizing operating personnel on other duties, particularly in outlying areas.

"On those special nonworking days when the flag is flown by Presidential proclamation or other valid justification, there is a savings in overtime pay."

The -S.S.A. memo made it clear that the agency did not rush into this proposition with careless abandon. It

"Prior to using these poles storing the flag, the respect-fulness and protocol were checked with the Army Institute of Heraldry, the State Department and the American Legion without adverse comment. As a matter of interest, we have installed such a pole at our headquarters building in Indianapolis."

Also as a matter of interest, a new flag law signed by President Ford on July 17 makes it legal to fly the flag 24 hours a day and in all kinds of weather.

Officer Recognizes Own Car as Thief Gets Into a Jam

Police Officer Ronald Caccippio walked up to a stalled car that was causing a traffic jam near the Queensboro Bridge in Long Island City vesterday morning, noticed that the blue car looked familiar. and then suddenly realized it was his own.

"I couldn't believe my eyes," said the officer. "I checked the license plate number just to be sure." He then arrested the driver, who was frantically trying to get the stalled car going again. The suspect was identified by the police as Tyronoe Hamilton, 21 years old, of 1075 Greene Avenue, Brooklyn, He was charged with grand larceny and posession of burglar's tools—a set of keys for various makes of cars. Officer Caccippio had driven the car to work yesterday morning and parked it a few blocks from where he was assigned to direct traffic at the intersection of 27th Street and Bridge Plaza South, near the Queensboro Bridge. He is stationed in the 114th Precinct in Astoria.

Around 10:30 A.M., he said, traffic began to back up behind a car at the intersection of Crescent Street and Bridge Plaza South. Had the car not stopped, he said, he probably would never have noticed it in the bumper-to-bumper maze of cars and trucks. Officer Caccippio said that he had bought the car five vears ago as a wedding present for his wife. Recently, he add- .. ed, he had been urging her to have it fixed because it would occasionally stall in traffic,

Daniel Foot, 39 years old, of 201 Linden Boulevard in the Brownsville section of Brooklyn, was convicted in State Supreme Court in Brooklyn of murdering two women and assaulting a third in November 1975. In testimony introduced at the 11-day trial, Mr. Foot was said to have fatally shot, stahbed and struck with a hammer Audrey Myers in her apartment at 1460 New York Avenue, and then to have turned on two visitors in the apartment, killing Paulette Virgo and injuriog Eileen Hedlam. Connecticut Delays New Gambling

The Connecticut Gaming Commission voted to extend until January a moratorium on the licensing of new gambling operations in the state. The commission has withheld consideration of new licenses for about a year. That moratorium began during a state investigation of alleged corruption at the Bridgeport jai-alai arena and was to have expired this month.

A Parisian Solution for Summer '76

Three clerks at the Royal Bank of Canada in Paris wear versions of camisole-top sundress over shirts or T-shirts on a cool day.

Special to The New York Times

PARIS-Thanks to the heat wave that turned this city into an inferno through June and the first half of July, the women of Paris are swinging along the streets in the most comfortable, cool easy fashion anyone can remember.

It's a billowing sunback dress, made out of any kind of cotton fabric and instantly dubbed the "bain de soleil"—the sun bath. It requires little or no undergarments, it could double for a maternity dress, and racks of it appeared in the myriad shops of Paris with price tags in the 100-to-200 franc range (about $20 to $40).

As for its pedigree, Kenzo did similar toose styles a couple of seasons back, but it is not known who first adapted it for the bot weather It caught on swiftly how.

No Bra Needed

The prototype had a taut band at the bustline, thereby eliminating the need for a bra, and was loose everywhere else. Some versions had wide camisole straps at the shoulders and three buttons at the back. Some tied at the shoulders, like childreo's rompers. Some were open almost to the waist at the back like a swimsuit while others came up to the shoulder

The dress was picked up by everyone, from teen-agers to grandmothers. Generalspeaking, the younger the wearer, the. puffier the dress. Older women tended to wear it fitted more soughy.

Though this one was based more on the exigencles of comfort than on style, many women brought to it a certain chic. There was the young woman out for dinner in a voluminous dress in a white cotton that looked like sheeting. With black sandals and a black handbag, it had acquired style, "It was so hot in June, I couldn't breath?," a secretary explained. "I just wanted something that didn't cling to me." Her dress, in purple cotton, had a tiered skirt and looked marvelous with her jet

"I don't care what you call it, it looks like a bouse dress," a buyer for a New York store insisted.

Nevertheless, when freshly pressed, when e colors were clear and well, it did acquire a certain charm, It was most often worn with espadrilles and an over-the-shoulder bag.

It was born out of the exigencies of need rather than fashion and it in some ways suggested a uniform that worked.

"It's more interesting than seeing every-body in blue jeans," a visitor observed. "You couldn't wear blue jeans this summer," a young Parisienne volunteered. "It was too hot."

Let's take the Porsche watch (the verb is used figuratively; it's impossible to take as it isn't yet here). The watch has been around Europe for about two years, cir-cling some of the most chic continental wrists, male and female. It was bound to be only a matter of time before the word site yet. No nothin' yet." nothin' except mystique, but that's enough if Fidel Castro were to permit Teofilo Stevenson to challenge Muhammad Ali for the world heavyweight title. Teofilo Stevenson is the first Olympic boxer to win two heavyweight gold medals. He has talked of wanting to repeat in Moscow in 1980 as the first Olympic boxer to win three gold medals.

"I do not want to turn professional," he said in Montreal last week, "When there were professional boxers in Cuba, they were treated like merchandise."

Teofilo Stevenson repeats the party line - that "boxing in Cuba is being supported by our revolution and our leaders," that "I want to be an athlete; if I became a professional boxer, I would not be an athlete anymore." And when asked if be would challenge Ali for the national honor of Cuba, he had a similar answer.

"I am sure Fidel Castro will never ask me to become a professional," Stevenson said, "If one day they ask me to have a match approved hy Fidel Castro, then I might fight. But he will oever ask me. Everyone in Cuba is in favor of abolishing professional boxing.

Two Losses to Soviet Boxer

Teofilo Stevenson also might know bis limitations. He isn't as invincible as he appeared in the Olympics last week and four years ago. Earlier this year be was stopped by a Soviet beavyweight, Igor Visotsky, and last year he lost a decision to the same boxer. But thee Russians entered Victor Ivanov as their heavyweight at Montreal because Visotsky's scar tissue bad made him vulnerable to cuts. Ivanov was eliminated in an early round while Teofilo Stevenson demolished four opportents with his right hand.

That right hand represents the mystique of a title fight with Ali — if the Cuban connected, would Ali fall? And if Fidel Castro believes that Teofilo Stevenson can win the world heavyweight coampionship, a title bout may be arranged, presumably with the Cuban Government collecting Teofilo Stevenson's share. But fro now, Mubammad Ali must train for Ken Norton and the mystique of that bout will be the champlon's left leg, bruised

"My leg's all right," Ali was saying now. "I been running three miles every day for the last week." His leg must be all right. He had been standing for

Yankees' Stones Raises Mark Hunter In High Jump to 7-71/4 Loses 11th

By PARTON KEESE Special to The New York Times

MILWAUKEE, Aug. 4 -Sixto Lezcano powered a two-run homer off Catfish Hunter that enabled the Milwaukee Brewers to beat the New York Yankees, 4-3, tonight in the first game of a doubleheader. Hunter suffered his 11th defeat against 12 victories.

In the second game the Yanks led, 7-1, in the top of the eighth inning.

It was also Huoter's third loss in a row, matching his worst stretch as a Yankee last year, when he dropped his first three starts.

He lost a chance to reach the 3,000-inning plateau when the Brewers did not have to bat in the last of the ninth. Catfish is two-thirds of an inning away from the mark, which 42 major league hurlers have attained.

After Lezcano's clout in the third, Huntar became almost untouchable as he allowed only two singles the rest of the way.

When Thurman Munson, the designated hitter, cracked a three-run homer off Bill Travers in the sixth, the Yankees were back in the game. But Travers also grew stronger and gave up only one more hit.

Travers had only one bad inning as he gained his 13th victory, the most on the Brewer staff. Munson's homer, his 11th, followed Fred Stanley's single and Roy White's double. Except for Mickey Rivers's leadoff single to short in the first and Chris Chambliss's single to right in the seventh, the 24-year-old left-hander was nearly as good as when be beat New York I-O, on May 25 and lost to New York,

1-0, oo June 25. His fastball was hopping, causing the Yankees to fly out 17 times in 31 at-bats. He struck out two men.

It won't show in the record book, but a short fly hy Von Joshua to left in the third was hadly misjudged hy White. He went back for the bail, which landed about at the position he had va-

Mike Hegan, the Brewer designated hitter, singled just before Lezcano's home run, continuing his feast on Yankee pitching. With two singles tonight, he went into the second game batting .416 against New York.

But Joshua and Lezcano got the big hits. Thomas struck out three times against Hunter.

Hegan remained the desig-nated hitter in the second game against Ken Holtzman, the Yankee left-hander, because Henry Aaron who usually faces southpaws, had a swollen knee. He was burt a week ago on a pickoff play.

The Brewers sent Jim Slayton, their second biggest winner at 12-8, against

Strike Is Averted

The union representing 200 groundskeepers and other service employees at Yankee Stadium reached a contract agreement Wednesday averting a strike threatened for later in the week.

Howard Chaiken, secretary treasurer of Local 54, Theater and Amusement Services Employees, said tha union basically got everything we wanted" during a mediation session that ended shortly before 3 P.M.
Talks between the union and the Allied Maintenance Corporation, which cootracts with the union and the Yankees to provide cleanup and ground crews at the Stadium, bad broken off last Friday with the union threatening a walkout "at least one day this week."

The key issue, Chaiken said, was an attempt by the Yankees to reduce the number of full-time offseason personnel from 17 to 12.

Moans, yells, curses and screams punctuated the air this morning during another brief fist fight. But beyond the brawling is the realiza-tion that the New Yorkers look sharp.

Carson, warming to the subject, "I'd bet that I'll sack Joe Namath at least once on Monday." The Giants and Jets square off next Monday night at Yankee Stadium. In college Carson was a

At least 21 countries, including the United States, permit their nations to compete in sports in South Africa

Wider U.S. Role Urged to Prevent Cities From Being Exploited by Owne

WASHINGTON, Aug. 4 (UPI)—The Federal Government should give more leverage to communities threatened with abandonment by owners of professional sports teams, a Buffalo city attor-ney told a House committee today.

Leslie G. Foschio, Buffalo's corporation counsel, told the Select Committee on Professional Sports that Buffalo offered a good example of actions by some sports owners that required giving city officials more oegotiation power.

Representative John W. Wydler of New York weot even further and woodered if cities should become owners of sports franchises. in some cases since municipal stadiums and other factors give them an important finaocial stake in sports.

"I doo't see any reason the Buffalo Braves couldn't be owned by the City of Buffalo," he said of the basketball team. 'I can see why they That would cause problems," Later he suggested that since sports franchises enjoyed a special legal status, a price for that status

"The relationship of a com-munity, especially where its local government also owns the sports facility to be used for production of the event, is not an ordinary comme

Our partnership capital

Salomon Brothers has over $140 million* in capital. More than any other New York Stock Exchange member partnership. More than any publicly owned securities firm, except one.

Why?

Salomon has just 10 offices. Only 1200 employees. The answer lies in the Firm's primary objective established in 1910: To risk our partners' capital daily in providing services to our customers. Our six-month daily average inventory, $2.4 billion, is probably the largest of any member firm.

> Continuous liquidity for institutional investors: Salomon makes bids and offers to customers in great size and in all kinds of markets—weak or strong.

Strong financing capability: Salomon manages and participates in the widest range of financings and strives to provide an effective market for all securities we underwrite.

Our customers are our market: Our largest inventories usually occur when markets have reached their peak and customers start to liquidate positions. When markets have bottomed out, we usually carry our smallest inventories. The opposite of what a firm utilizing its capital only to maximize profits would endeavor to do.

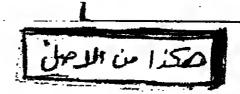

Our partnership demands involvement: All 49 of our partners are active, making on-the-spot decisions throughout each trading day. Virtually all our general partners' capital is in the Firm. It must remain there, together with their profits, many years longer than New York Stock Exchange regulations require. This capital is at risk every day.

This combination of strong capital and the rapid decision-making flexibility of a partnership enables Salomon Brothers to act quickly and decisively for the institutional, corporate and governmental clients we serve. If Salomon's strength can assist you, call us.

Survey Finds Company Gifts to Charity Dipped as Profits Rose Between 1972-74

Corporate contributions to charitable causes declined between 1972 and 1974 as a percentage of domestic pretax net income, according to the latest survey by the Conference Board, even though profits in the same period rose by 37.3 percent. At the same time, contributions to culture and art increased substantially among the 799 companies reporting to the survey, conducted jointly by the board and the Council for Financial Aid to Education.

The Conference Board could not explain the decline, in view of record corporate profits in 1974, except to note that an unprecedented onethird of those profits were so-called inventory profits, which are nonrecurring and not indicative of a company's long-term financial health. The reason is simple, she explained; "it's because the

A Closer Look at Index Fund Investing

By ROBERT METZ

Wnuld the small investor fare hetter if he stopped trying to pick his own atocks or even stopped baving experts pick them for him—and instead settled for the gains and losses chalked up by a leading market average?

Small investors so inclined may want to follow in the footsteps of professional investors who have put money into index finds.

The portfolios of index funds, unmanaged investment companies, are oot chosen by investment managers. Rather, the funds are invested in a calculated manner so that their results will approximate those of a leading average, such as Standard & Poor's Composite 500 Stock Index.

Such funds have hecome popular with some profes-sionals since the bear market that caused cascading stock prices for more than five years, beginning in 1969. As it turned out, much professionally managed money suffered more than did the leading averages. did the leading averages. Thus, some professionals feel that if they invest at least part of the money they have under management in an index fund they may be able to avoid criticism — eveo when the market and the index itself move lower.

Beginning this week, the individual can bet the same combination. Under the sponsorship of Dean Witter & Company and other leading brokers, the First Index Investment Trust is being offered to the public.

The shares are priced at $15 each with a minimum purchase of 100 shares. The underwriting commission is 85 cents a share so that $14.15 per share will go to the trust, While $30 million worth—2 million shares—are being offered, it is under-stood that the underwriters will accept all orders they might receive over and above that amount hy the offering date, Aug. 23.

First Index, like some similar trusts available to professionals, will oot invest in all 500 stocks in the S. & P. index. According to the pre-liminary prospectus, filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission oo July 30, 1976, the trust will huy as many of the S. & P. stocks as is "feasible" and will select stocks in order of their weighting to the index, based on each stock's market value. The trust will own no fewer than the 200 S. & P. stocks having the largest weightings, which at present represent more than 85 percent of the total weighting of the index and thus are largely responsible for its performance. These stocks would also represent mnre than 85 percent of the value of the trust's portfolio, the prospectus states.

The trust is neither sponsored by, nor affiliated with, the Standard & Poor's Corpo-ration. The fund is to become a member of the $2 hillion Vanguard Group of Investment Companies, which includes the Wellington Fund, the Windsor Fund and the lvest Fund, among others.

The prospectus also notes what transactions will take place only because of administrative adjustments or hy reason of capital flows into or out of the trust. Therefore turnover will be "low, not expected to exceed 5 percent Net investment income is to be paid to sbareholders as quarterly dividends. Capital gains realized, if any, will be distributed annually. Both dividends and capital-gains distributions will be reinvested in additional shares of the trust without charge unless the shareholder elects to receive cash. The low turnover is ex-pected to result in deferral of taxatioo on any gains until the shareholder sells his trust shares. However, if portfolio securities are sold to meet redemptions or for other reasons, capital gains or losses may be realized.

Because the trust's portin-lio will not be "managed," the Trust has no investment adviser, pays no adviser's fee and is expected to have a relatively low annual ex-pense ratio, estimated at about two-tenths of 1 percent of net assets. Io additioo, each shareholder will be charged a quarterly account maintenance fee at the annual rate of $6. Investors who huy shares in the fund are likely to dis-cover that "owning the aver-age" as it were does not guarantee investment success. Anyone who had invested in such a fund-had it existed—at the beginning of 1972 would have been little better off at the end of June. 1976—even assuming all dividends relovested. A table in the prospectus takes a much longer view. Had an investor been able to huy an index fund approximating the performance of the S. & P. index at the be-ginning of 1955—index 100— he would have quadrupled mooey and then some by the end of June 1976 when the index would have equaled 459.70, dividends assumed re-

Bond prices continued to rise yesterday as the Treasury wound up its offering of 8 per cent 10-year notes, the "center-piece" of its big three-part fi-nancing this week. While the results will not be disclosed until after 5 P.M. today, dealers in Goveroment securities reported another great wave of demand for the oew notes, possibly even heav-ier than in February when an-other highly popular 8 percent note issue was offered.

When the Treasury announced its new offering of 8 percent notes last week, it said it would sell at least $4 billioo and might raise the amount by $2 billion or more if demand warranted. Yesterday dealers predicted that the Treasury might sell $7 billion or $8 billion of the notes.

Some dealers compared their current order books with the

Lenders Apply Complicated Formula If Loans Are Repaid Before Maturity

By LEONARD SLOANE

Aoyone who has ever received a consumer loan from a bank—and has bothered to read the application — has probably seen the words "rule of 78" on the form. Eveo the new simplified consumer loan note of Citibank, which converts the typical legalese of loan appli-cations into easy-to-read language, contains this term. Yet few borrowers understand what it means or the circumstances under which it will be applied by a leader.

The rule of 78 is the most common formula for computing rebates oo consumer finaoce loans that are prepaid before its expiration date. Also called "the sum of the digits" method, it is used by bankers to describe bow in-terest rebates will be applied.

Contrary to the expectation of many who borrow money, if a 12-month installment loan is repaid within six months, there is no refund of half the interest, or finance charge. The reason is that the borrower had use of most of the fuods and is expected to pay more interest in the first six months than the last

The designation rule of 78 is derived from the way a bank makes a 12-month loan. It considers that there are 12 units of principal outstanding the first month, 11 the secood month and so on down to the last month with one unit outstanding. The sum of the digits from one to 12 is 78. Since the total charge for the loan is divided into 78 parts, the borrower pays off 12/78ths of the interest in the first month, 11/78ths in the second, etc.

If the loan is repaid after six months, the borrower will have paid back 58/78ths of the interest, since 12, 11, 10, 9, 8 and 7 equal 57. As a result, 21/78ths—or approximately 27 perceot—of the interest is still outstanding and will be refunded to the customer. even though the loan was repaid in half of the time agreedu pon.

Here is how the rule works: when a bank makes a personal loan, it usually takes the entire interest at the begin-ning, in the form of discount-

The botrower, in turn, signs a note of obligation to repay $100 a month for the next If the borrower can pay back the entire $1,200 by the end of six months, bowever, the bank will rebate 21/78ths of $72, or $19.38. Fifty percent of $772, of course, is $36 the refund would be about half of what many borrowers expect. Another example is the person who takes out a loan for $6,000 for five years, or 60 months. If the discount rate is 5 percent annally (an A.P.R. of 11.96 percent) or 25 percent for the five years, doct $1,500 in advance and give the borrower the remaining $4,500. In this case, the digits in the computation range from 60 and the sum is $1,830. And if the entire $6,000 is repaid after three years, the rule of 78 applied to the remaining 24 months calls for a rebate of 300/1830ths about 16 percent—of $1,500. or $245.90.

Corporate bond dealers reported that institutional iovestors were buying corporate boods even though their yields, as one man put it, "are right on top of Governmeots."

The money supply is expected to show relatively little growth this month. That, too, has belped the bood market outlook.

The only factor that caused some concern yesterday was the rise in the interest rate on Federal funds—reserves that banks lend one another. Yesterday the Federal-funds rate rose, above 5½ perceot, and the Federal Reserve injected money temporarily into the banking system to nudge the rate back down.

Savage Comes Back to NCK

John C. Savage, 44 years old, who oult Norman, Craig & Kummel-New York in 1970 as an executive vice president is returning there as president. Thomas K. Myers, also 44, moves up to chairman, having been president for three years.

The announcement of the executive changes was made by Norman B. Norman, 61, president of the NCK Organization, a worldwide opera-tion, It was made through a simple news release and not at the champagne, strawber-ries and whipped cream breakfast that has marked previous new-president announcements.

In the release, Mr. Norman made it plain that he was still chairman of the finance committee of the New York company and will continue to play the role of 'editor' in two important areas: marketing and creativity."

NCK is one of those rare agencies that has more overseas business than domestic. Its worldwide billings last year were $220.2 million. which put it in 15th place internationally among United States agencies, while its domestic billings out of New mestic billings—out of New York—were $79.6 million, ranking the agency 29th in

Mr. Savage, a St. John's University graduate and former Marine Corps officer, started in the agency business with Foote, Cone & Belding, joining NCK in 1962. Since leaving the agency he has been a marketing vice president on the Whitehall Division of American Home country's toughest marketing organizations. Mr. Norman, who founded NCK out of Weintraub & Company, is one of the more aggressive, dynamic and outspoken members of the marketing community. He first gave np his presidency in 1968 to William E. Chambers Jr., a Harvard man who had re-signed from Foote, Cone & Belding where he had been general manager when the agency lost the Trans World Airlines account.

Mr. Chambers left NCK the next year citing "basic differences on various internal policy and administrative problems." Mr. Savage also left soon thereafter.

In 1971 Walter W. Bregman, another Harvard man, was brought back from Eorope to take over the presi-dency, at the same time Mr. Myers, a Dartmouth graduate, was named executive vice president. Mr. Myers be-came president in 1973 when Mr. Bregman left.

.To create the administrator job, Chief Judge Charles D. Breitel, who had just taken of-fice, persuaded the four presiding justices to delegate some, but not all, of their administrative powers to Justice Bartlett.

one that would most fundamentally have altered the way the courts actually operates was the proposal dealing with the arrow of the courts is constitutionally vested.

News the proposal dealing with the arrow of the courts is constitutionally vested constitutionally vested subject of the four presiding justices in whom the administrative function of the courts is constitutionally vested constitutionally vested subject of the four presiding justices in the official memorated statement last week.

ALBANY, Aug. 4—Following are the highlights of the court reorganization package before the Legislature

Court of Appeals. Future members of the sevenjudge Court of Appeals, the state's highest court, would be appointed by the Governor on the recommendation of a 12-member Commission of Judicial Nomination, and subject to Senate confirmation. The members of the commission would be sppointed by the Governor, the Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals and the leadershin of the Legislature. The procedure this screening panel would use—whether, for example, it would suggest a specific number of names from which the Governor could choose - ia to determined by subsequent legislation.

Court Administration. A centrally supervised court administration would be created under a chief court administrator, to be named by the chief judge subject to the approval of the presiding justices of the four Appellate Departments. The administrator would carry out policies established by the Court of Appeeals.

Judicial Discipline. This would streamline the procedure for removing judges who are found unfit to serve on the bench by eliminating the Court on the Judiciary, the state's special disciplinary court, and placing ultimate disciplinary authority in the Court of Appeals. It also would create an expanded Commission on Judicial Conductwith 11 members - to receive, initiate and investigate complaints about judges' fitness and performance.

Court Financing. This bill would require the state takeover of local court costs by the fiscal year 1980-81. It is the only provision in the court package that could go into effect next year without a constitutional amendment. Starting next April 1 the state would pick up one-quarter of the court costs now horne by cities and counties—a figure which this year is $180 million. The state would pick up another ope-quarter of the burden in each of the following three years. The bill also would turn 11,000 local court employees into state employees oext April 1, with their pension benefits unimpaired and with their local courts continuing to pick up a proportionate share of their salaries.

Supporters of the current plan. Mayor Beame served noproposal point to Justice tice on the Governor that he

With enhanced power and a uoified court budget, the supporters of this proposal feel that more than cosmetic changes can be made in the court system.

A bill now before the Legis lature, providing for state take-over of all local court costs, would give the chief court administrator the responsibility of preparing the budget for all but town and village courts.

State Takeover Backed

In recent years calls for the state takeover of local court costs bave intensified, reflecting a general feeling that courts are more properly a state rather than local function, And now there is no disagreement among political leaders that this should be done.

There has been disagreement. however, as to how soon this should take place. The bill under consideration tonight settles on a four-year timetable, starting for the fiscal year peginning next April 1.

Among the arguments advanced for a state takeover are tbe following: It would im-prove efficiency and management of the courts, eliminate the wide variation in court services throughout the state

BRANIFFEAVIS INTRODUCE THE 10 HOUR, $995 SPECIAL

ONLY A BRANIFF AIRLINE TICKET CAN GET YOU AN AVIS RENTAL CAR FOR 10 HOURS FOR ONLY $9.95. THAT'S DRIVING WITH FLYING COLORS.

HERE'S THE WAY IT WORKS: Ask for your rental car when you call Braniff to make your flight reservations. When you arrive at your destination, show your Braniff ticket at the Avis counter. Your car will be waiting. This offer applies in all Braniff U.S. mainland cities, except New York/Newark and Miami/Fort Lauderdale. HERE'S WHAT YOU GET: An Avis Colt or similar car...or if none are available... a bigger car at no extra cost. The special 10 hour rate of $9.95 is guaranteed, with no charge for mileage. You pay for the gas. You must return the car to the same Avis office.

Offer expires December 31, 1976.
